

Return to Spindle

You would have thought that attending the largest fiber festival in the country would have lit a candle under my spinning. But it didn't. I spun some BFL that I had already int o another not-sock-yarn, and then the spinning mojo just plain gave out.

No longer. I don't have anything that I'm dying to knit, so I pulled out some merino- silk fiber from Ellen's 1/2 Pint Farm and got to spinning -- it's 2 oz of luxury, which I'm spinning lace-weight to make a small shawl, but if the spinning goes well, it might get entered into the County Fair here in Marin.

See the prettiness?

Revknits

Faith and life seen through the stitches we make.

<http://revknits.com>

