

FO: Leftie and Lintilla

The Behm-a-long continues. One of my Behm FO's will go to my cousin - her father's name was Behm, so that will be appropriate, but I'm going to make her guess which one.

I finished Leftie first, and delighted with how it came out:

The soft leftover idea is terrific. I used a lovely wool/silk fingering weight blend in the black, and a slightly larger needle, so it's a generous size.

Revknits

Faith and life seen through the stitches we make.

<http://revknits.com>

The second Lintilla is now done as well, and totally in gift-for-another colorways:

Martina's patterns are very well edited, tech-tested, and are written in a variety of languages. I can see why she is successful!