

Babies Got Blankets

Spring has brought two baby blankets across my needles.

The first was a communal project of the Knit Night gals at MFA for our friend, gypsyknitter, aka Tabitha. Amazing squares were knit, and it was my job to knit them together:

And knit up:

You can go here to see read more about the party and fun we had, and here for some great photos!

Revknits

Faith and life seen through the stitches we make.

<http://revknits.com>

---

The other blanket is for Afghans for Afghans, and it has not been completed in time for the May 19th deadline:

Yes, that is Isadora with the enquiring look. It's finally sewn together, and now I have to find some TV time to sew the ends together.