

Happy Kitties

I participated in another kitty toy swap. This one included an "assmat" (say that three times quickly, I dare you), and a kitty toy. But our Ravelry crowd is a generous lot, so we give and get more than that. This time, the kitties and I all enjoyed our package from Jenny in Kent, WA:

I love the mug and the tea. The cards have those sheep with the wiggly eyes. Brandy really likes the mice:

Revknits

Faith and life seen through the stitches we make.

<http://revknits.com>

and Izzie has completely adopted the assmat - it's double size, so all of her fits on it nicely:

